

FIFTY-TWO AMERICANS ARRIVE IN EL PASO

MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED FIFTY ARE IN DANGER ZONE IN MEXICO

Three Victims of Massacre Are Buried in El Paso Without Demonstration on the Part of Americans--Huerta's Body Is Placed Temporarily in Vault--Carranza Will Be Given Full Opportunity to Run Murderers to Earth.

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 14.—Fifty-two Americans, including a number of women and children arrived here tonight at 7:15 o'clock from Chihuahua City, the region where alleged Villa bandits slaughtered eighteen foreigners last Monday.

More than 150 Americans still remain in what is considered the danger zone.

The latter it was hoped would reach American territory aboard a special train Monday on a train sent from El Paso last night, on which according to advices received by the United States officials arrived at El Paso tonight. The refugees who arrived tonight said the special train passed thru Chihuahua City this morning.

Three Victims Are Buried.

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 10.—Three victims of the Santa Ysabel, Mexico, massacre, Thomas Evans, M. B. Romero and J. H. Woon, were buried here today without demonstration on the part of Americans whose threats against Mexicans led to the establishment of a military patrol in the city last night. Only one source of anxiety remained tonight—the safety of a party of Americans who left Chihuahua City early today on a special train. This train, according to advices was to arrive at Juarez tonight.

Reports were current that incendiary posters were being circulated in Juarez, declaring that several Mexicans had been killed in the brawls that attended last night's demonstrations here. Mexican consular officials declared they knew of no deaths.

Many View Huerta's Body.

Mexicans, who for days were required to stay within doors last night during the demonstration reappeared on the streets today in numbers. Many viewed the body of Victoriano Huerta who died last night.

Huerta's body, in the uniform of a Mexican general was placed temporarily in a vault here late today. Members of the family and former officers of the Mexican army followed the flag draped casket to Concordia cemetery where brief services were conducted by Rev. Father Carranza. It is planned to remove the body to Mexico after peace is restored in compliance with the general's dying request.

It was stated that no request for permission to take the general's body to Mexico City had been made to Carranza. Plans for a mass meeting here by Americans to discuss the situation were cancelled today on the orders of Mayor Tom Lea, it being decided that no meeting would be held until trains sent south to bring Americans out of Mexico arrived safely on the American side of the border.

Confirm Reported Executions.

Confirmation of reports of the execution of General Jose Rodriguez by Colonel Maximo Marquez, were received coupled with the statement that his body would be brought to Juarez for verification by Americans of the action of the Carranza government.

Mail advices from Torreon brought details of the occupation of Gomez Palacio by the united commands of Calisto Contreras, Canuto Beyes and Pedro Moreno and other advices were that General Argumedo had reached a point near Bermilillo. This was not confirmed. The same source reported the Laguna district in the hands of anti-Carranza forces.

An official report from General Jacinto Trevino said bands of Villa bandits would be exterminated wherever found.

While the Carranza consul stated no armed force would be permitted to enter Mexico to aid in the extermination of Villa bandits, it was rumored here that such a movement is being organized along the border.

Huerta's Body Lies in State.

The body of Huerta lay in state today in the house on a side street which had been occupied by his family and retinue while he was a prisoner of the United States at Fort Bliss on suspicion that he was planning a new revolt in Mexico. His casket was draped with the Mexican flag and upon it lay his jeweled sword, the gold lace chapeau he had worn on state occasions as dictator of Mexico, and his gem-encrusted stars and orders.

Candles burned at the head of the casket. Two of his former military staff acted as guard of honor, while all around sat weeping women garbed in black.

Mayor Tom Lea, who was Huerta's attorney, was one of the half-dozen Americans who passed before the casket for a last look at the man who refused to salute the United States flag and forced the battle at Vera Cruz which cost the lives of twenty American sailors and marines.

Will Be Given Full Opportunity.

Washington, Jan. 14.—General Carranza and the de facto government of Mexico are to be given full opportunity, without intervention from the United States to run to earth the murders of American citizens at Santa Ysabel and to demonstrate ability to restore order and protect foreign rights in the southern republic. This was the outstanding fact here tonight after a meeting of the cabinet, a conference between President Wilson and Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee and another day of stirring debate in the senate chamber.

The president, supported by his cabinet and the Democratic leaders in congress, is decided to determine that the American government shall not be stampeded by war talk and cries of vengeance into rushing an army across the Rio Grande to destroy in its infancy the de facto government, which the United States with the co-operation of the Pan-American nations aided in establishing later the Mexican nation has been torn by revolution for years.

In the senate, administration leaders firmly outlined today the position of the government in the face of denunciations from the Republican side and another resolution directing intervention, proposed by Senator Works of California. At the state department, officials were vigilant in their watch over the situation awaiting official word from General Carranza in reply to the demand made upon him to seek out and punish the bandit murders.

Send Troops After Outlaws

While no direct communication from General Carranza had reached the state department tonight, messages from him at El Paso, Ariz., the Mexican ambassador-designate announced the despatch of troops to capture the outlaws and his purpose to visit "condign punishment upon every participant in the massacre."

This message was regarded at the state department as an indication of the character of the formal reply to Secretary Lansing's representations which is expected not later than tomorrow.

The Mexican embassy was without other advices regarding the bandit hunt. General Obregon was said to be at Queretaro, where he had been summoned for a general conference and would likely remain there, the work of running down the Villa forces about Chihuahua being left to Generals Gaviro and Trevino. Measures to facilitate the removal of Americans from districts where their lives might be endangered, were discussed by department officials with Mr. Arredondo, who later advised General Carranza by telegraph that every assistance be given such Americans and escorts provided to accompany them into cities where strong garrisons are main aid. He also recommended to Carranza that where foreigners objected to leaving, they be forcibly removed to safe districts.

Large Numbers Leaving Republic

That large numbers of Americans are leaving northern Mexico was reported to the department but it is estimated that not counting the members of a Mormon colony at Casas Grande, there still are at Parral, Durango, Madera and other points, districts whose control by Carranza is doubtful, more than 300. That the majority of these may remain in spite of warnings, is feared.

When Secretary Lansing was asked whether the United States government would protect its citizens under such circumstances, he replied that it would do so "to the best of its ability," but that in such cases the government would not be obliged "to use force where people are indiscreet."

He compared the situation in Mexico with that in Europe at the beginning of the war when Americans were ordered out.

Debate in the senate brought out the positive declaration from Senator Stone and Senator Lewis of Illinois that there would be no countenance of the demands of Republican leaders for intervention and both charged the Republicans with insincerity of purpose, and seeking

JUSTICE HUGHES SPEAKS TO NEW YORK LAWYERS

PLEADS FOR PRESERVATION OF ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS OF GOVERNMENT

Address Comes at End of Session Adeptly With Interesting Discussion—Refuse to Consider Resolution Criticizing Socialist Party.

New York, Jan. 14.—An address by Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes of the supreme court of the United States in which he made a plea for the preservation of the "essential elements of both state and federal governments, without permitting necessary local autonomy to be destroyed by the unwarranted assertion of federal power and without allowing state action to throw out of gear the requisite for control in national concerns" was one of the chief features of the thirty-ninth annual meeting here tonight of the New York State Bar association.

Justice Hughes' address came at the end of a session replete with interesting discussion and after the association had refused to consider a resolution criticizing the national Socialist party and referring to "the German imperial autocracy" as the "great rival of the American theory of what constitutes liberty and free government."

The resolution was submitted by the "committee on the duty of the courts to refuse to execute statutes in contravention of the fundamental law."

The criticism of German autocracy which, the committee said was "enforced by a federal council with plenary power, tempered with state socialism, and stiffened by general military or naval service—that has prevailed since 1871," came after a discussion of Colonel Roosevelt's new nationalism.

Declaring that new nationalism's attitude toward judicial review of the validity of laws in a federation "is merely one of destructive criticism," the committee added:

"While many advocates of new nationalism approve German autocracy, your committee cannot find any who even mention the German federal council with its plenary, autocratic and dictatorial power." The criticism of the Socialist party was aimed at a plank in that party's national platform in 1912, which criticized as usurpation the action of the United States supreme court in enforcing the constitution since 1789.

CASE OF FREDERICK T. PRICE IS GIVEN TO THE JURY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 14.—The case of Frederick T. Price, charged with murdering his wife, went to the jury at 4:55 p. m. today. Price has been on trial in the district court for ten days.

Judge Daniel Fish, in his charge to the jury, said in part: "It is unnecessary in this case to give particular attention to any degree of criminal homicide except that of murder in the first degree for the reason that upon proofs before you, if the defendant is guilty of homicide at all, he is guilty of the crime charged in the indictment."

M. C. Brady, attorney for Price, in his closing argument attacked the story told by Charles D. Etchison, chief witness for the prosecution. The evidence showed clearly, Mr. Brady asserted, that if Mrs. Price was murdered, she was killed by a blow from a monkey-wrench, held in the hand of Etchison and that she then toppled over the cliff while Price's back was turned.

POLICE OFFICIALS' TESTIMONY OCCUPIES ATTENTION OF COURT

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 14.—Testimony of police officials as to the confessions alleged to have been made by C. Victor Brown and Henry D. Spellman, the two negroes on trial with Mrs. Elizabeth Mohr for the murder of her husband Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, continued to occupy the attention of the court at today's session and included a statement imputed to Brown that for three months prior to the murder, Mrs. Mohr had been "after him" to kill her husband.

Questions asked by counsel for the negroes in cross-examination of Thos. Robins, chief of police of Barrington, were taken as indicating that the defense was particularly interested in learning whether George W. Heals, Dr. Mohr's negro chauffeur, had a revolver on the night of the murder. Heals, originally held on the same charge as the other negroes, has since been allowed to plead nolle prosequere to a charge of manslaughter and is expected to be a witness for the state.

DO NOT EXPECT REMOVAL OF SOLDIER TO RESULT IN PROTEST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Removal of Albert Clark, a private in the United States army on the American Steamer Anta Marta at Jamaica is not expected to result in a protest from the state department. Officials said today that as the removal occurred in British territorial waters and Clark was released after a brief examination the British authorities had acted within their rights.

The principle that any nation may detain for examination any suspected alien in its territory or territorial waters has long been established in international law. It is pointed out by officials that such removals have an entirely different status from those occurring on the high seas.

Suspected persons frequently have been taken off Americans ships since the war began, by British authorities at Hong Kong and in Canadian waters.

SEIZE LETTERS FROM VON PAPEN

American Embassy in London Is Given Copies of Correspondence

GAVE MONEY TO HORN

Papers Show Von Papen Made Payments to Men Charged With Blowing Up Plants

BERNSTORFF INCREDULOUS

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The American embassy was today given for transmission to the state department copies of correspondence seized from Captain Franz Von Papen, recalled German military attaché at Washington, which show that Von Papen made frequent payments to persons charged with responsibility for blowing up munitions works and bridges in the United States. The correspondence was taken from him at Falmouth by British authorities when he was on his way to Germany.

Gave $700 to Werner Horn. One item in the correspondence shows that the day after $10,000 was paid to Von Papen from the German embassy, he gave $700 to Werner Horn, who was arrested in connection with the blowing up of the Canadian Pacific railway bridge at St. Croix, Maine.

Several large payments were made to Captain Von Papen by Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador at Washington. Most of these were for salaries or bonuses. A number of entries showed payments made by the ambassador to the military attaché for "war intelligence office." One of the payments on this account, made in October of 1914, was for $2,300.

A check stub found among the captain's papers shows that about two weeks before the explosion in Seattle on May 30th, 1915, Von Papen sent $500 to the German consulate in Seattle. In February, 1915, he sent $1,200 to the Seattle consulate.

As an example of the size of the captain's financial operations his bank book shows that in January of 1915 he received approximately $6,400 and paid out $5000.

Shows About 500 Items. Von Papen's check stubs, bank books and letters from the Riggs National Bank of Washington, show about 500 items, many dealing with routine expenditures. Payments to various persons who have figured prominently in the activities of German agents in America were revealed in others.

In January, 1915, Captain Von Papen gave a check payable to Amick and company, New York, but with the name of E. Kueperle in brackets on the stub. This is believed to have reference to the man named Kueperle who, after being arrested in England on a charge of espionage, committed suicide leaving a written confession in his cell.

Bernstorff is Shown Despatches. Washington, Jan. 14.—When Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, was shown London despatches tonight telling of the correspondence and accounts taken from Captain von Papen, the former German military attaché here, his comment was: "I don't believe it."

Further than that the ambassador declined to be quoted. He did make it plain however, that he doubted any documents of an incriminating nature had been taken from Captain Von Papen, although he advanced no theory of how the correspondence and accounts described in the London despatches had been connected with him.

The impression which was conveyed to questioners by officials in German diplomatic circles was that they thought it possible that Captain Von Papen had been connected with the published documents by British agents. Their argument was that it was incredible that Von Papen, knowing that his ship would be taken into a British port to be searched, would have carried any correspondence of such a nature if he possessed it. They recalled that when the British officials at Falmouth searched Von Papen's personal effects he protested to American Ambassador Page in London. Tonight, the German officials declared that had the captain carried the papers described, they thought it unlikely that he would have called further attention to them by protesting to an American official.

Paid Much Money to Attaché. At the embassy tonight it was said that the ambassador from time to time had paid much money to Captain Von Papen in the way of salary and for the expenses of such work as he was expected to conduct as a military attaché. The embassy, it was said, had no knowledge of his private bank account.

Embassy officials specifically disclaimed any knowledge of the reported payment of $700 to Werner Horn connected with the attempted destruction of a Canadian Pacific bridge. They further disclaimed any

GRAND JURY INDICTS FOUR MEN AND A WOMAN

CHARGE CONSPIRACY TO VIOLATE U. S. CUSTOMS LAWS

Defendants Will Be Arraigned in Federal District Court Monday—Are Alleged to Have Shipped Contraband Rubber to Germany.

New York, Jan. 14.—Four men and a woman were indicted today by a federal grand jury on a charge of conspiring to violate the customs laws of the United States by shipping contraband rubber to Germany.

Those indicted were Edward Webber, a cousin of Albert Webber, an official of the Deutsche bank in Berlin, Paul Schmidt, Webber's partner in the Rubber and Guayule Agency of this city, Max Jaeger, a German maker of automobile accessories; Mrs. Annie Dekkers, a native of Holland, and Richard Wohlberg, a naturalized citizen who operates a rubber and cement factory here. The Guayule agency is also made a defendant.

According to Assistant United States Attorney Harold Content, Mrs. Dekkers' was to have been the go-between. Her sex and the fact that she had been in the habit of making frequent trans-Atlantic trips were relied upon to protect her from suspicion. The rubber was to be carried by her as personal baggage as it would have to appear then on the ship's manifest.

Four and one half tons of rubber were obtained by the alleged conspirators, according to Mr. Content before the first attempt at shipment was made. On Nov. 27th, Mrs. Dekkers took passage on the Holland-American liner Ryndam bound for Rotterdam. She had four trunks and eight packing cases filled with rubber but which was marked personal baggage. Acting on information given the customs authorities by British agents, Mrs. Dekkers' baggage was held up and she was not permitted to sail.

The matter was referred to United States Attorney Marshall who was at first in some doubt as to whether any federal law had been violated. He finally decided to lay the matter before the grand jury with the result that the present indictments were found. The defendants will be arraigned in federal district court next Monday.

MEMBERS OF DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE MEET

Endorse Administration of President Wilson and Urge his Re-election.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Members of the Democratic state central committee at a meeting held here today endorsed the administration of President Wilson and urged his re-election. Governor Dunne's administration also was commended. The committee decided to hold the Democratic state convention in Springfield, April 17th.

The meeting was harmonious and telegraphic greetings were read from Governor Dunne, Congressman Henry T. Rainey, William E. Williams and other party leaders.

With a view of avoiding, if possible, a factional fight at the primaries, a sub-committee was named to select eight delegates at large from the state to the St. Louis national convention. The names of the harmony candidates for delegates at large suggested by the sub-committee are:

Governor Dunne, Roger C. Sullivan, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, Robert M. Sweitzer of Chicago and Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Carrollton, Jacob Creighton of Fairfield, Reed Green of Cairo and Jackson R. Pierce of Quincy. The state contemplates a union of the Sullivan and Dunne factions.

Carter H. Harrison will, it is said, be a candidate for delegate at large and will oppose the state committee's slate.

FRENCH SUBMARINE TORPEDOES AUSTRIAN SCOUT CRUISER

ROME, Jan. 14.—Via London, Jan. 15.—It is officially announced that the French submarine Foucault, attached to the Italian fleet, torpedoed and sank Thursday in the Adriatic Sea an Austrian scout cruiser of the Novara type.

Scout cruisers of the Novara type of which there are four—the Novara, Helgoland, Sada and Admiral Spaun—have a displacement of 3,381 tons and carry in their armament nine 3.9 inch guns.

AUSTRIAN FORCES TAKE CETTINJE

Armies Continue March Toward Fortified Port of Antivari

SITUATION IS CRITICAL

Montenegro is Now Encompassed on All Sides, Except in the South, by the Invaders

AUSTRIANS LOSE CRUISER

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The flag of the dual monarchy flies over Cetinje, and the Austro-Hungarians are continuing their march southward toward the fortified port of Antivari, driving before them by force of numbers, the soldiers of King Nicholas.

Montenegro is now encompassed on all sides, except in the south by the invaders, and across the southern border in Albania, should they be driven there they will face foes in the Albanian tribesmen. With the fall of their capital and with no let-up apparent in the Austrian pressure against them, the situation of the Montenegrins seems a critical one.

Turks Take Important Position.

The newly acquired positions of the Austrians dominating the Adriatic Sea have not sufficed to keep from harm their warships, one of which a cruiser of the Novara type, has been sent to the bottom in the Adriatic by a French underwater boat operating with the Italian fleet. Whether there were casualties connected with the sinking has not been made known. Another important position has been taken by one of the Teutonic allies—the Turks—according to unofficial reports from Berlin. Kermanshah, the so-called capital of Persia, famous for its rugs and carpets and surrounded by fertile wheat country, has been entered by the Ottoman forces who were warmly received by the populace.

Little fighting is going on along any of the various fronts except by means of the big guns and sapping operations.

Czar Addressed Army.

Petrograd, Jan. 14.—via London—"Rest assured, as I said at the beginning of the war, I will not make peace before we have forced the last of the enemy out of the limits of the mother country and not otherwise than with the consent of our allies to whom we are bound, not by paper, but by a sincere friendship and the tie of blood."

Emperor Nicholas in these words addressed to one of his armies on the Russian front during the week preceding the Russian Christmas, once more replied to the rumors of a separate peace in Russia, in which from time to time, have run thru the country and even reached the men in the trenches.

The emperor after visiting the armies on the southern front reviewed those of General Alexei E. Everet, commander-in-chief of the forces in the west.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS TO HOLD CONVENTION FEBRUARY 15

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The Republican state committee met here today and decided unanimously to hold an unofficial state convention in this city on February 15th, for the purpose of recommending four delegates and four alternates to the national convention at Chicago. Elnor Root was named as the committee's choice for president of the convention. The session was harmonious until a resolution was proposed that the committee go on record as being in favor of any measures designed to prepare the United States against aggression on the part of any foreign foe.

After some excited debate the resolution was referred to the committee on resolutions.

Inheritance Taxes.

The bill introduced by Representative Sabath of Illinois, providing for an inheritance tax to affect estates above $10,000 will receive more favorable comment than measures designated to assess taxes against incomes smaller than those provided for in present laws. Inheritance taxes are usually divided amongst several heirs and paid from funds for which they have not labored, and so it happens that the objections are not so vehement as against income tax propositions. The Sabath measure if enacted into law, it is said would result in a revenue of $50,000,000 annually for the government.

Bankers Object to Questions.

Bank officials in East St. Louis, Belleville and a number of Southern Illinois cities have combined to enter a protest to the banking department of the government because of the intimacy of questions asked by some bank examiners. They say that there is an increasing tendency to ask a lot of questions which really do not concern the financial status of the banks and information which if it becomes public later on may prove a source of disadvantage and embarrassment.

The complaint which was formerly heard against bank examiners was not from the bank officials but from the public, who criticized the examiners because of alleged cursory methods used in their investigations. Possibly now they have gone to the other extreme and are following lines of information which have no value so far as the interest of depositors is concerned. If this is true it is in line with activities in other governmental departments where disposition is shown to dig into the private business affairs of individuals with no resulting benefit to the public.

Sherman Stands Well

With Progressives.
The statement from Chicago that leaders in the Progressive party, while not enthusiastic about Senator Sherman's presidential candidacy, at this time are in a receptive mood to give the Illinoisan some aid if he makes a considerable showing, has been received with great joy by the Sherman managers. It will be remembered that Senator Sherman championed the cause of Roosevelt

Rippling Rhymes By WALT MASON

Speeding Years.

How swift the years roll on, my friends, how swift the years roll on!

They come and make their bow and bend, they smile and then they're gone! Some morning, in the mirror's face, we see a snowy hair; and ere we've time to dye the place, a hundred more are there. But yesterday my locks were brown, and life seemed in its dawn, and now the gray spreads o'er my crown—how swift the years roll on! But yesterday I held a child upon my willing knee; an innocent and mild, and beautiful was he; and now in tones of loss he speaks, he's learned to toil and spin, and he has whiskers on his cheeks, and more upon his chin. Oh, can this be that little child, this man of weight and brawn? How can the two be reconciled? How swift the years roll on! But yesterday my limbs were free from stiffness, pain and ache; and I could climb the tallest tree, or swim across a lake. But if I walk a block today, my wind and strength are gone; they take me homeward on a drag; how swift the years roll on!

DATES IN ILLINOIS HISTORY.

Jan. 15, 1880—LaSalle began the construction of Fort Crevecoeur, the first fortification built by white men on Illinois soil.

in the Chicago convention and was loud and insistent in his demands for recognition of certain principles for which the Progressives were standing. Having gone clear to the ditches with the Roosevelt adherents, the senator then elected to remain inside the Republican party, as he was one of those leaders who sympathized with many of the principles advocated by the Progressives, but who also adhered to the theory that real reform would come from within the Republican party and not thru forces without.

Because of this stand and the fact that the Roosevelt influence was against Sherman and for Raymond Robbins in the subsequent senatorial contest, some unfriendly feeling grew between the feelings, as it so often does, and Roosevelt followers realize that Mr. Sherman is in very large measure in sympathy with those principles and ideals for which they have contended. They respect the sincerity of his positions so they are in a state of mind which will make his nomination satisfactory as a standard bearer, ready to espouse their principles if in the coming convention he secures the necessary votes.

The Middle Ground.

If the suggestions made by Jane Addams before the military committee of the senate were followed there would be no increase in the armament of the U. S. until after the present war is over. Miss Addams told the committee that the present agitation for an increased army and navy and greater national defense was the result partially of panic because of the war abroad and partially the result of arguments spread abroad by those interests which would directly profit from the enormous expenditures which would be required for increased armament.

Miss Addams is a clear, level headed woman and as a rule her arguments are sound. But in the present instance so many world happenings go to disprove her theories that it will be difficult for many who admire her and respect her judgment to follow her leadership in this instance. To wait until the war is over and see what happens, then the course of events, if necessary at that time set into motion the movement which will make for a greater army and navy, is so absolutely opposed to the spirit of the preparedness program that it constitutes an extreme view.

A middle ground seems to be justified by conditions, and the average citizen will not enthrone over the plans of those extremists who would maintain an enormous army and provide for increases in naval equipment which would place a burden of taxation upon the country for years to come; nor do they go to Miss Addams' extreme and recommend that no preparation be made for the unhappy time which might come with an assault or indignity from a foreign power. There is certainly a middle course of preparedness which will bring with it a feeling of security and yet will not carry taxation burdens heavier than the people can readily and patriotically bear.

Political Pot Boils in Cook County.

Mayor Thompson of Chicago opened his fight for national Republican committee in the speech at Carbondale Friday, in which in vigorous terms he assailed former Governor Deneen and Roy O. West, long Deneen's intimate friend and now serving as national committeeman. The mayor declared that first of all he was for Senator Sherman and that the Chicago politicians he opposed were making the Sherman candidacy a matter of secondary importance to their own interests.

Thompson is for Colonel Lowden for governor and Lowden seems to be in the position of a candidate who is getting more ardent support from the mayor than he wants. Thompson's complications and alignments are such in Cook county that his support may possibly become a damage instead of a blessing. Some of the mayor's official acts have not brought the expected results. His order requiring the closing of saloons on Sunday was given under such circumstances that he not only lost the friendship of all the wet element but did not gain what he expected among the dry leaders. It is said on good authority that the mayor does not have the support or confidence of the anti-saloon league. The forces against which he is contending for party honors are such that, taken together with the other opposition he has, it certainly seems the mayor has fallen outside the lines of battle into the trenches.

This does not mean that the mayor's campaign just begun is to come to a close soon, but does mean that there are indications that he is up against the real thing in politics. The announcement yesterday from Chicago that Progressives in Chicago had decided to cast their lot with the Deneen-West faction creating the former governor with hatred thus secured a large accession of strength. There are rumors too that Edward J. Brundage and his following may soon come to an understanding with Deneen. Such a combination would likely give the balance of power to the Deneen-Brundage coalition, but would also mean an exceedingly bitter fight within the party ranks in Cook county. If Deneen does come to an understanding with the Brundage contingent he must come out with an open declaration for Senator Sherman, something he has thus far failed to do. This will mean then that all factions have declared for the Illinois senator.

SEEK SUPPORT FOR TAX

AMENDMENT PROPOSITION

Secretary of Chicago Civic Federation Here Tells of Campaign Which is to be Waged—Pamphlet Gives Reasons Change in Law is Needed.

Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the civic federation of Chicago, was in Jacksonville Friday. The civic federation is just now devoting special attention to the tax revision amendment of the Illinois constitution which is pending and is to be voted upon at the November election. The tax reform program has been outlined by a special committee of which Frank I. Mann of Gilman is chairman and S. B. Montgomery of Quincy is the vice chairman. The movement has been endorsed by the Chicago Real Estate board, the Illinois Farmers' Institute, Chicago Association of Commerce, Chicago Board of Trade, Illinois Bankers' association and a large number of other state organizations. Mr. Sutherland's work just now is in seeing the officers of still other organizations in down state cities with the purpose of securing endorsements which will be included in the list already had. It is not the purpose to do a great amount of publicity work among voters until the summer months as it is realized the election is so far distant that the effect sought from publicity would not likely be secured at any early date. While here Mr. Sutherland interviewed A. C. Rice, president of the Illinois Farmers Grain Dealers' association, President John J. Reeve of the Chamber of Commerce, and a number of other citizens.

In connection with its educational work the committee has issued a pamphlet setting forth a statement of present taxing conditions in the state and indicating what it is expected to be accomplished by the proposed amendment. In the same pamphlet the taxing systems used in practically all other states are explained and their advantages or defects are pointed out. In addition to these facts, letters of endorsement are presented from well known persons who have made some study of taxing problems, and space is also given to comment made by various papers in the state. In explaining something of the work which is being attempted, the pamphlet has the following:

"There is pending in Illinois to be voted upon Nov. 7, 1916, at the general election, an Amendment to the Revenue Article of the State Constitution, submitted by the Forty-ninth General Assembly and designed to authorize future general assemblies to revise our unworkable and unequal personal property tax laws."

"It is hoped that those who are especially interested in the subject of taxation and in ending tax evils in Illinois, will find in this volume a convenient hand-book of information."

"Tax-dodging in Illinois has become notorious. Largely as a result of this, there is general complaint of undue and increasing burdens upon real estate; of double taxation; of inequality of tax burdens; of inadequate public revenues, and of burdens falling upon the weak and the unwary, while the shrewd and powerful escape."

"Other states, similar in character to Illinois, by modern and scientific methods, have made tax-dodging a rare offense instead of a common habit, and have devised means for taxing effectively and justly those classes of property which largely escape in Illinois. Moreover, they derive from their larger revenues with less friction. The constitution at present prevents the Illinois general assembly from adopting any of these methods."

"The pending amendment, if approved by the people, will merely give to our general assembly the power over personal property tax laws which will enable them to meet modern conditions and such future problems as may arise—a legislative power now allowed by Connecticut, New York, Rhode Island, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and other states. It is a conservative measure, essential to any improvement."

"The fact that on Nov. 2, 1915, the voters of three conservative states, Massachusetts, Maryland and Kentucky, overwhelmingly adopted similar amendments, definitely settling aside the worn-out general property tax and establishing the principle of classification in taxation, indicates the interest which is taken in taxation and the trend of enlightened public sentiment. The fact that the voters of New York state rejected a pending amendment which would have slightly restricted the now practically unlimited powers of the State legislature over tax laws, indicates a decided popular opinion in favor of giving the legislative body ample powers—an opinion based on more than thirty years of experience."

"Results—not theories—demonstrate that the present Illinois general property taxation system is no longer practicable; that it cannot be enforced equitably or effectively under modern conditions."

"The general—or so-called 'uniform'—property tax is based on the theory that every kind of property, regardless of character or condition, shall be taxed in proportion to value and by uniform method and rate. This theory presupposed that all property can bear identical burdens and also that all kinds of property are equally easy for the assessor to find and estimate their values."

"The imperative requirement of the uniform property taxation system is uniformity of valuation. All property must be assessed at the same percentage of actual value—equalized—so that each and all, with the same tax rates, shall bear its required proportion of the burden of taxation."

"The rule of taxation based on this theory has persisted in the state constitution of Illinois since 1818.

At that time the rule was fit and applicable. Property was almost entirely of the tangible, visible class—land, houses, furniture, live stock, vehicles and produce. Since that time, especially in recent years, new and complicated forms of wealth have developed—and with all of these varying classes no one rule of taxation can cope successfully. It is a safe assertion that at the present time at least a third of the total wealth of Illinois is made up of these modern economic values, which, being invisible—intangible, easily escape taxation, and shift their share of the burden of the support of government upon tangible property. Thus a rule once good has become useless thru inevitable economic change. In spite of its name, it no longer produces even a semblance of uniformity, and the point at which it has broken down is in the attempted taxation of intangible values."

MORTUARY

Mosby.

The remains of the late William H. Mosby of Chicago reached Jacksonville over the Wabash Friday morning, accompanied by Miss Ethel Mosby of Chicago, H. E. Mosby of Sioux City, Iowa, Charles H. Hillebrecht and W. S. Jenkins of Chicago. The body was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Bar, 1209 West State street, where the funeral service was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The brief but impressive service of the Episcopal church was said by Rev. J. C. Langton, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church. The music was furnished by Mrs. H. M. Andre, Miss Ainslee Moore, Messrs. John L. Johnson and H. M. Andre, with Miss Rose Bellati at the piano.

Interment was in Diamond Grove cemetery and the bearers were Chas. Hillebrecht, W. S. Jenkins of Chicago; James Pickens, Davenport, Ia.; Walter Ayers, Theodore Tomlinson and Edward M. Dunlap of Jacksonville. The floral tributes, which were in charge of Mrs. E. M. Dunlap, Miss Mabel Reid and Miss Katherine Barr, were especially handsome, representing the kind of sympathy of many of the friends Mr. Mosby made during his long connection with the John Church Co. These emblems came from Chicago, Milwaukee, New York, Minneapolis, Des Moines and a number of other cities.

Mr. Mosby was born in Springfield, Aug. 13, 1864, and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Mosby, came to Jacksonville as a child. His boyhood days were spent here and he attended the public schools and the business college. In 1882 he went to Chicago, and it was a comparatively short time afterward that he entered the employ of the John Church Co. He held a minor position at first, but his advancement was rapid and six years ago he became manager of the Chicago branch. The position is one of large importance and furnished the best evidence of Mr. Mosby's ability and his earnest devotion to the interests of the concern with which he was so long identified.

It was but a week ago that Mr. Mosby contracted a cold and this quickly developed into pneumonia and brought to an untimely end his useful life. Tho he was a thorough business man, Mr. Mosby was of gentle and kindly spirit, and these characteristics so dominated his life that he held an especially warm place in the hearts of his associates. He was especially devoted to his mother, Mrs. Q. H. Chapin, and his sister, Miss Ethel Mosby, and the dominant characteristic of his life was devotion to those who were nearest to him. His utter unselfishness manifested itself in his life and in all things he was such a man that his sudden taking off is hard to understand. The members of the funeral party returned home on the Wabash night train.

Melendy.

Miss Malvina C. Melendy, aged 84 years died at the family home, 211 North Prairie street, Friday morning at 6 o'clock. She had been an invalid for many years but her last illness caused by gripe lasted about four weeks.

Deceased was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 31, 1831. She was the daughter of Thomas W. and C. S. Melendy, who were natives of New Hampshire. She came to Jacksonville with her parents in the early forties. Their first residence was on West Court street. Later they resided in the Kreider property. Her father many years ago erected the residence on North Prairie street, which has since been her home.

Miss Melendy was the last of the family. The parents died over thirty years ago. Three sisters also preceded her in death. Mrs. Sarah P. McNeill died at Galena in 1889. Mrs. Mary E. Blanchard died at Urbana in 1853 and Miss Harriet L. Melendy who lived with the deceased in the family home died in 1904. Since the death of her sister the deceased has lived in the family home for the most part alone. Two nephews, Thomas McNeill of Galena and Malcolm McNeill a professor in Lake Forest University survive.

Miss Melendy was a woman who made and kept friendships. She was a close personal friend of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Morey and was much beloved by young people. Tho deprived by affliction from attending church Miss Melendy was of a deeply religious nature and none was a better friend of the church than she. She did many deeds of charity and her work with the body with which she was affiliated will be missed.

No definite arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral but it probably will be held from the residence Monday afternoon in charge of the Rev. A. B. Morey. Interment will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Vall.

Word has been received in the city of the death of Mrs. R. H. Vall, at Tempton, Cal., which occurred Wednesday. Her maiden name was Alma Woodson, a daughter of Judge and Mrs. John Woods of St. Louis. She was 48 years of age and was born in Virden. Her father still lived but her mother has been dead for several years. Until three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vall resided in Morgan county. They sold their farm and moved to California on account of Mrs. Vall's health. Mrs. Vall was a woman who everyone liked and her death will be learned with sorrow. She was a member of the Central Christian church.

to make a political issue. Senator Stone, after his conference with President Wilson, said intervention in Mexico at this time would be monstrous in the face of the fact that the United States had just recognized Carranza. He declared that to intervene would be playing into the hands of Villa and Zapata, who sought for purposes of revenge to make trouble between Carranza and the United States.

Fall Assails Administration.

Senator Lewis insisted that the Republicans, dispirited of any other political issue, sought to make Mexico a paramount issue, but would fail. To intervene in Mexico, he asserted, would turn south and central America against the United States and destroy the diplomatic achievements of the administration with European belligerents. Senator Fall, Republican, assailed the administration and bitterly attacked Carranza declaring that even Senator Stone would be amazed at his recognition by this government, could he see notes from the Brazilian minister formerly in Mexico City, regarding Carranza outrages. Senator Lodge observed during the debate that the war of April 21, 1914, against Huerta had been successfully terminated, "inasmuch as Mr. Huerta had just died in jail."

Senator Stone tonight said the foreign relations committee would not meet until next week when President Wilson is expected to send in information regarding the recognition of the Carranza government requested in Senator Fall's resolution.

The reported threat of a group of Americans at El Paso to enter Mexico with a military organization of their own, apparently is not taken seriously by the state department. Mr. Lansing intimated that such a movement, since it would be a violation of the neutrality laws, would be checked.

Charges made by citizens of El Paso against American Consul Edwards of Justice, were received during the day. Mr. Lansing said he saw "no necessity of replying."

FLOOR POLISHER BLOW CAUSES DEATH

W. L. HENFLING KILLS AUSTERY ECONETCH FRIDAY AFTER-NOON.

Patient at Jacksonville State Hospital Meets Death at Hands of Fellow Patient—Blow Caused Fracture of Skull and Concussion of Brain—Deputy Coroner Carroll Holds Inquest.

William L. Henfling, a patient at Jacksonville state hospital, was killed today afternoon by a fellow patient named Austery Econetch who struck Henfling with a floor polisher causing a depressed fracture of the skull. The deed was committed on Ward 6 south annex at about 4 o'clock. Dr. Foley was called and Henfling was rushed to the hospital. He was given immediate attention but death ensued at 4:25 o'clock, without the patient regaining consciousness. Econetch was transferred to the main building on C 1 half an hour after the assault occurred.

The coroner was notified and deputy coroner John M. Carroll went to the hospital and empaneled a jury which met to hear the evidence at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening. The jury was composed of George E. Deweese, foreman, James McGinnis, H. W. Dorwart, Ezra Scott, Dr. W. H. Weirich and George A. Schmalz, clerk. The testimony of Dr. E. A. Foley, Garret Cruzan, who was at attendant on the ward and W. J. Olroyd, supervisor of the annex was heard.

Dr. Foley in his testimony gave a history of the two men as it appeared on the records of the institution. Henfling the dead man appears to be a man about 35 years of age. He was transferred according to Dr. Foley's testimony from Anna hospital in 1904. Econetch, the slayer, was transferred from Kankakee last August. He is a native of Austria and speaks but little English, according to the testimony Dr. Foley said he was called to ward 6 south annex about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. He found Henfling lying on the floor face downward with his head in a pool of blood. He was removed to the hospital for examination. Three wounds were found on the head. The one which probably caused death was on the left side at the back of the head and was a bad depressed fracture. The two other cuts were bad but probably neither would have caused death.

Garret N. Cruzan, attendant on the ward testified that he was standing in the coat room of the ward checking up some slayers brought to him by Mr. Kitchmiller, another attendant. He heard a noise and looking out of the door saw Henfling on the floor. He started for him but before he reached him Econetch struck the prostrate man twice. He grappled with Econetch and threw him to the floor and called to Kitchmiller to grab the floor polisher. He stated that Econetch bit his thumb in the scuffle. According to Cruzan Econetch was in the habit of talking to himself but nobody could understand him as he always talked in some foreign language. He said that Econetch was inclined to be quarrelsome while Henfling was an inoffensive fellow and never had much to say.

Walter Emberton, who is night watch, having charge of seven wards one of which is ward 6, said that he had known Henfling for five years. Was a man who talked to himself a great deal and when he first knew him was rather destructive to his clothing. Always regarded him as a man who could take care of himself in a fight. Had never caused any trouble at night. In answer to a question he said he had never known him to have any trouble with the man who killed him. Emberton said that a few nights ago Econetch had quarrelled about having a window raised to ventilate the ward.

W. J. Olroyd, supervisor of the Annex said that he had been called on the telephone about 4 o'clock to come to ward 6 south annex right away as something had occurred and to bring a doctor. He had called Dr. Foley and they reached the ward shortly after the trouble. He found Henfling on the floor. He was taken immediately to the operating room, where he died at 4:25 o'clock while Dr. Foley was attending him. Olroyd said that Henfling was a stupid, inoffensive fellow whom he did not think knew enough to quarrel with anybody. He said he did not know much about Econetch as he could not understand what he said. Econetch was transferred to C 1 main building half an hour after the trouble.

It was also brought out in the testimony that the floor polisher with which Econetch struck Henfling is in common use in all such institutions. Dr. Foley said that the floor polisher had been used in the institution for the past seventeen years. They are used to keep the floors polished and also to give exercise to the patients.

Cruzan in his testimony said that Econetch had at one time struck at an attendant when Dr. Hill was present. Dr. Hill informally stated to the jury that he was present once when the patients were marching and that Econetch had shown some temper and struck at an attendant named Cox.

After hearing the testimony of the foregoing witnesses the jury returned the following verdict:

"We, the undersigned, jurors, sworn to inquire into the death of William Henfling on oath do find that he came to his death by a blow

The Iowa System of Self-Feeding Swine

THE IOWA SYSTEM OF SELF-FEEDING SWINE.
(By John M. Evvard)
With the Collaboration of Russel Dunn.

The advisability of using the self-feeder in the fattening or finishing of yearling hogs often arises. In order to determine this some 64 head of thrifty yearling hogs of 225 pounds weight were divided into 8 lots and fed in large part according to the "Iowa System of Self-Feeding Swine." The gains, feed required for a hundred pound gain, cost of a hundred pounds gain, and the hog profits are presented:

Supplement	Average Daily Gain	Daily feed eaten total	Feed eaten for a 100-lb gain	Cost of a 100-lb gain	Total gain, Corn @ 60c	Profit per hog, Hogs @ $7.50, Corn @ 60c
None	1.87	8.79	469	None	469	$2.51
None	2.05	9.21	449	None	449	3.12
Whole oats	1.94	9.02	461	4	465	2.94
Whole mids	1.91	8.74	465	3	458	2.73
Blood meal	2.19	9.41	424	23	447	2.64
Oil meal	1.75	8.14	446	19	465	2.57
Meat meal	2.01	8.80	421	16	437	3.17
All				6 oats, 20 mids, 3 B. M., 24 Oil meal, 21 Meat meal	451	2.81
Above	2.18	9.84	397

All lots self-fed exception first. Price of feeds: oats 45c; wheat middlings, $1.45; blood meal $3.50; oil meal $1.50; meat meal $2.50; and rock salt $1.00.

Peculiarly enough the self-fed hogs receiving corn as the lone grain when compared to these hand-fed did much better; in other words, the hogs which were self-fed made more rapid gains (2.05 as compared to 1.87 pounds daily, a difference of almost 10 per cent; are more feed; required 20 pounds less feed for a hundred pounds gain; cost 2.12 less per hundred pounds of gain and made 61 cents more profit per head than where hand-feeding methods were followed. Surely the old time method of hand-feeding is clearly excelled by the self-feeding scheme.

Numerous other experiments along this same line show clearly that self-feeding of mature hogs is a much more efficient method than hand-feeding.

The economy of feeding supplement to well grown yearling hogs is not often profitable with hogs weighing more than 250 pounds. Charging the supplements used in this experiment at the ordinary prices we find that none are superior to corn alone self-fed when the hogs are taken from 250 to 350 pounds. The meat meal or tankage fed alone with corn, produced gains with a little less feed for every hundred pounds put on, but the saving in total feed was not sufficient to decrease the cost of gains because of the relative cheapness of corn and the comparatively high price of supplement.

When the final profits are figured it is noticed that corn alone when self-fed for 76 days, hogs going from 225 pounds to practically 350, made 25 cents more profit per head with gains costing 11 cents less on a hundred pounds than where meat meal was added to the corn.

Note that physiologically speaking the hog had considerable judgment as to the feeds which he should eat when allowed corn and meat meal, but that from an economic human consideration it was best to keep this high priced supplement out of their feeding trough.

It may not be amiss to state that the supplementary feeding of tankage or meat meal paid well during the first 30 days of this trial but when figured on the entire 76 days' basis was relatively unprofitable. The best method of procedure probably would be to have fed meat meal the first 30 days and then to have finished upon corn alone; this is likewise indicated in some of our other experiments when hogs of this weight and age were fed.

While oats are relatively unprofitable for fattening hogs insofar as their efficiency as an addition to a lone corn grain ration is concerned, although the hogs ate but 4 pounds of them for every hundred pounds of gain, the effect of this small quantity of oats was marvelous to say the least. The oats decreased the daily gain practically 5.5 per cent; inhibited the feed consumption somewhat; increased the feed required for a hundred pounds of gain more than 15 pounds; and added to the cost of this gain 19 cents on the hundred on the hog; truly every thing was unfavorable to the addition of the whole oats. These results are borne out in large measure by other experiments.

Peculiarly enough, if that 4 pounds of oats required for a hundred pounds of gain could have been given to the hogs for nothing one could not have afforded to add them to a basal corn and salt ration. Oats are too bulky for a fattening feed, however, it looks as if the oats have some sort of an inhibiting effect, not altogether attributable to their "bulkness" upon the appetite and upon the ability of the hog to make physiological and economical gains.

How about middlings? With corn at 60 cents the middlings would necessarily have to be bought for practically 57 cents less a hundred pounds or namely for not more than 58 cents a hundred in order to have produced gains at the same cost as the corn alone. Now do not forget that this is simply true when added to corn with hogs of this weight and age; middlings are very valuable to young pigs. When a supplement is really needed middlings are often times an economical source; when they are not needed, however, as in this experiment, their value per pound is really less than corn.

Blood meal which costs $3.50 a hundred, is ordinarily too high priced to feed as a supplement to corn; this being especially true when tankage can be bought at $2.50 a hundred. Because of the high price of blood meal it has not made great headway as a supplementary feed when corn is fed to hogs. However, it is a fairly efficient supplement when a supplement is really needed.

Linseed oil meal was a disappointment in this experiment as it has been in others. One notices that the oil meal markedly inhibited the daily gains; decreased the feed eaten and increased the cost over corn alone even though it is charged at the moderate price of $1.50 a hundred. To have produced gains at the same cost as corn alone the oil meal would necessarily have been bought in this particular trial for not more than 25 cents a hundred pounds when corn costs 60 cents a bushel. Note that the 19 pounds of oil meal hogs had been carried to the same weight as the corn alone hogs they have required more than 45 pounds of corn for a hundred pounds of gain. The conclusion is logical that the oil meal would not only have to be given to you for nothing, but the donor should likewise present you with a little cash in order to square the damage to be done. Please remember to corn when supplement is needed. This experiment was run with heavy yearling hogs which need very little supplement.

The physiologic efficiency of a ration consisting of a large number of feeds is quite clearly shown in that it produced the heaviest daily gains of all; this is due to the large consumption of feed which was encouraged by the great variety in the ration. From an economical standpoint, however, this ration of many varieties of feed was not profitably served at free will to these yearling swine. With very young pigs, however, a large variety of feeds is of very great advantage, especially in dry lot feeding.

A very unexpected development is indicated in our investigations; we find that self-fed require less supplement to corn than they are hand-fed, in other words the signs all point toward the truth of this specific example. If corn alone self-fed has most sufficient of all rations for the particular time of experiment, then corn alone hand-fed would not be as efficient as corn plus tankage or its equivalent in other supplements. It seems that a certain definite minimum of protein is required and that hogs which are self-fed concentrated as possible, supplied to make up this physiological deficiency occasioned largely because of comparative inability being inhibited by hand-feeding methods.

Frank E. Drury who today ranks as one of the most successful stockmen in central Illinois has an article in the holiday number of The Breeder's Gazette on "Feeding Cattle in the Corn Belt." The holiday issue of this well known publication comprised one hundred pages and the contributors were many of them of country wide fame. Mr. Drury's article has both local and general interest and will be published in the Journal in installments.

FEEDING CATTLE IN THE CORN BELT

By Frank E. Drury.

"Straw is a short-lived bedding, when used alone. About the only material that is a success is our shock fodder, the pith of the stalks being a good absorbent. When that was suggested a few years ago every one thought it would never disintegrate enough to be got out of the barn. We talked it over and my brother-in-law, I. F. Tomlin of Pleasant Plains, had the nerve to try it first. He found that the part that worked out of the barn was the only part in the condition we thought all would be half-rotten and hard to handle, but all in the barn was well rotted and ready for the spreader as soon as we could get ready to deliver.

I have just finished hauling the manure out of my barn. We had 4 spreaders and hauled 60 big loads a day into the field for corn next year, 10 or 12 loads to the acre. I hauled more than 5000 loads out this fall, besides hauling all the hog manure from concrete floors on to the field in the winter. There were 120 acres of silage, 120 acres of shock corn and about 500 acres of wheat straw used in the barn last winter. I notice the analysis of wheat straw gives it a fertilizing value of $2.80 per ton. The richness of the manure is measured by the kind and amount of concentrates fed with the humus material. There were $20,000 worth of corn and $2,000 worth of cottonseed meal fed in the making of this manure. Besides we used lime as a disinfectant twice a week in the hoghouse, which went in the fertilizer.

I have been asked how I put the finish on my cattle, what I do to make them show their good coats of hair and smooth glossy appearance that experts recognize easily as a "hand finish" whether I handle them differently the last few weeks before going to market, what feeds I use and what class of cattle I prefer. This brings up quite a topic for discussion. I think that we shall find that many of our best feeders will differ widely in attempting to answer these questions.

As to the kind and age of cattle profitably to handle, I find little difference in the ability to put on good average gains in any of the well-known breeds. Some have smaller frames than others. The more compact, low-down sort seem to have the ability to make a good showing of all they have; hence they are the quicker-turned, and I think that point the one to keep in mind in sorting cattle of all kinds. If they are low-down, deep, broad, loose-hided, with broad, short heads well out up under the neck, and have straight backs and legs—the "good doing," quick-turning kind—it makes no difference to what breed they belong, for all practical purposes. Of course a bunch of Herefords or Angus or the old-red and roan Shorthorns, all of a kind, look a little more select, and might bring 10 or 15 cents more on the market, but to sort for breed or color it will cost from 25 to 50 cents at the beginning, and unless one is going to compete for prizes it does not seem to pay that much difference.

I have tried all ages, from calves to four-year-olds. With the older cattle with big frames and nothing to do but cover quickly I have had the exceptional results of 4 pounds daily for 4 months' feed. The smaller cattle, all the way down to calves, eat less corn, and furnish a correspondingly less amount of hog feed. Results with calves have been about 40 pounds per month on a half-ration thru the winter and 80 pounds on a full feed on the grass, when handled in this manner. When the full-feed plan is used, from first to last, the average is about 70 pounds per month. The in-between two years steer weighing 800 or 900 pounds to start with and going to market at from 1,300 to 1,400 pounds is about the safest, one year with another, and for the average feeder. This steer hits a pretty good demand as to weight and requires no special skill in handling and preparation for feeding, as does the baby beef steer, and he does not have to depend on the Kohshier trade and thus be hindered by the Jewish holidays, as do big, heavy cattle.

I believe market history will bear me out in the statement that there does not seem to be more than about one feeder in ten who has the knack of putting the hard finish on quality beef at the weight that the market demands. Every year when heavy cattle get a black eye in the market because of an over-supply, we generally get high prices for the few baby beefs to be found. The following fall most feeders go crazy after calves, and the country is heavily loaded with young cattle; many of them are in the hands of men inexperienced in the problems of baby beef production. The following summer a sorry lot of men meet in the yards in Chicago. The few well-finished yearlings of quality are bringing good prices. Everyone thinks his cattle are as good as the top, but when they get to market they have to sell at from 75 cents to $1.50 per cwt. below what was expected. I have known of cases where the owners shipped them home, buying more to go with them, and then finishing them properly and making good money. But if we are to try to cater to the trade demands for light-weights we should all probably put more study on methods of and preparation for handling and properly finishing baby beef.

Here again we come up against a problem similar to that in making hogs immune and then selling them just after the danger is over, for we have the black leg to contend with in all stock a year old and younger. Market conditions are such that to buy either calves or good-quality two-year-old cattle in order to get a good selection they should be bought in the fall, when the runs are coming in from cleaning up the western pastures. This happens generally prior to getting the stalkfields open in the cornbelt, so that the large operator, with plenty of grass left from his summer feeding, can lay in his supply of cattle reasonably, and still have time to graze them down a little before the stalkfields are open; then carrying them thru on several sections of stalks and sheet straw-slacks, warming them up in March with corn and getting on to a full feed as the grass gets good. They go out in August as 1,400-pound fat cattle, with a light corn bill.

WILL GO TO FLORIDA.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vannier of Neelyville enjoyed a visit Thursday and Thursday night with their son Aruth and family of this city. Mrs. G. Howard McCullough, their daughter, was also a guest at the same time and place and left yesterday morning with her parents for her home, Lone Elm, near Riggsport. Mr. and Mrs. Vannier expect to start Tuesday for Kissimmee, Florida, where they are interested with others of the family in large real estate holdings and mean to spend the winter there visiting and looking after their property.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong licorice or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches, "biliousness" and that lousy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

Lady Baltimore Cake

The Most Popular Cake This Season

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

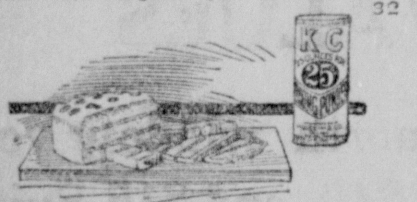

This is considered by many cooking authorities the finest cake that can be made, though in reality it is not at all difficult.

K.C. Lady Baltimore Cake

One cup butter; 2 cups granulated sugar; 1 cup milk; 1 teaspoonful rose water; 3 1/2 cups flour; 3 level teaspoonfuls K.C. Baking Powder; whites of 6 eggs, beaten dry.

Cream the butter and beat in the sugar gradually. Sift together, three times, the flour and baking powder, and add to the butter and sugar, alternately with the milk and rose water. Lastly, add the egg whites. Bake in three-layer cake pans. Put the layers together with the following frosting.

Note—The cake is a large one and sells at Women's Exchanges for $1.50.

Frosting for Lady Baltimore Cake

Three cups granulated sugar; 2 cups boiling water; whites of 3 eggs; 1 cup chopped walnuts; 1 cup chopped nut-meats; 5 eggs cut in three sizes.

Stir the sugar and water until the sugar is dissolved, then let boil without stirring until the syrup from a spoon will spin a long thread; pour upon the whites of the eggs, beaten dry, beating constantly meanwhile. Continue the beating until the frosting is cold; add the fruit and spread upon the cake.

The K.C. Cook's Book contains ninety just such delicious recipes—bread, muffins, cakes and pastries. You can secure a copy free by sending the certificate packed in every 25-cent tin of K.C. Baking Powder to the JACOBS MFG. CO., Chicago. Small cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates.

MARKED GROWTH IS SHOWN BY Y.M.C.A. AT QUARTERLY SOCIAL

F. M. Deerpake of Chicago Tells of State Progress—Volley Ball Series in Gymnasium Follows Program.

The Jacksonville Young Men's Christian association has made much progress since the campaign of last spring. It was shown Friday night by the report of the treasurer, W. G. Goebel, at the first quarterly social and business meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Supper was served at 6:30 o'clock by ladies of Centenary church. Mayor H. J. Rodgers, president of the association, was toastmaster.

Several selections were played by the Mandolin club during the serving of the meal. Before the company sat down, Prof. J. H. Rayhill read the Twenty-Third Psalm and the Rev. F. A. McCarty offered prayer.

Mr. Goebel, the treasurer gave his report and the Rev. W. E. Spoons was called upon for some take-offs in verse. W. J. Brady spoke briefly of the work of the association. A brief address by the state president, F. M. Deerpake of Chicago, was followed by the appearance of Mrs. Florence Pierson Hartmann, Miss Rena M. Lazelle, and Miss Mabel L. Gieckler, members of Illinois Woman's College faculty. A talk by the Rev. F. A. McCarty completed the program.

Mrs. Hartmann and Miss Lazelle responded with two duet numbers, appreciated by the audience and heartily applauded. A group of readings by Miss Gieckler held the undivided attention of all.

State work was the theme of Secretary Deerpake. Seven months ago the city and railroad associations of Illinois had a membership of 35,053, said the secretary. They now number 43,300, a gain of 25 per cent in the seven-month period. Freeport is soon to dedicate a $130,000 Y. M. C. A. building and at St. Paul there has been completed a building costing $50,000.

Mr. Deerpake had something to say of the success of recent conferences for older boys. He told of the work of association men among the foreigners of the cities and described recent gospel team work on the part of college Y. M. C. A. men. Three hundred and fifty men have taken part in the language instruction work during the past year and 200 were enrolled upon the gospel teams.

SOME REMINISCENCES OF

MR. AND MRS. IVEN WOOD

Have Been Married Over Half a Century and Among Prominent Residents of Morgan County.

Speaking of wedding anniversaries, Mr. and Mrs. Iven Wood were married Dec. 24, 1862. Mrs. Wood's name was Mary E. Camm and her father occupied a home on the spot on which A. A. Curry now lives. Her father was Samuel Camm, a man of fine qualities and good reputation. The wedding ceremony was performed by Prof. J. B. Turner of Jacksonville as the young people were a trifle ambitious and wished somebody of note to tie the knot.

The old house, then the Camm homestead, has given way to the handsome and spacious residence erected by Chas. S. Rannells and now owned and occupied by A. A. Curry and has been moved northward not far from the pond and is called the boarding house.

Mrs. Wood's brother, Col. William Camm, was an exceptionally fine soldier as his men all testify and he did gallant service at the head of the 14th Ill. Infantry, participating in many important battles and campaigns.

When he knew his sister was to be married he secured a furlough to be present and arrived in time. A crowd had assembled to do the charivari act and the young couple went right among them and offered to take the lead. There was however a look in his eye which they could see by some lanterns they had along and finally they decided discretion to be the better part of valor and desisted from making any demonstration.

A good many were present at the wedding as both parties were widely known and had many friends. The young people dispensed with a honey moon trip and at once took possession of a farm of sixty acres situated half a mile east of the Wood homestead and given them by the groom's father, the late Judge Samuel Wood. To this the young man added twenty acres but it hardly furnished sufficient room for the scope of his abilities so he sold out and with his brother James went to Macoupin county and invested in 700 acres of land and carried it on for five years.

Finally the attractions of the home neighborhood were too strong for him and he sold his Macoupin county farm to Milton Mayfield and returned to Morgan county and bought land some three miles east of his father's residence. He at first secured 320 acres and then bought of his brother James 200 acres and 320 of Henry Wiswell. Then he sold out and went west of Pisgah buying the Col. Morton and Henry Stevenson farms and 200 acres of the Chas. S. Rannells' farm. He bought his brother Milton's share in the paternal estate and made various other deals and has retained a modest little garden patch of something like a thousand acres with which he manages to get along very well.

His means he had largely secured by judicious trading and feeding of stock and had also inherited some from his father's estate. He has ever been a force in the Union Baptist church and a deacon for forty years. He is an authority on many things in farming and progressive in his ideas and is widely known and respected.

A few years ago he was badly injured in a runaway and fears for his recovery were entertained but he was spared and while possibly not quite as strong as before he is hale and hearty though he will be 75 years old the latter part of February.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood have been the parents of eight children: Charles of feed cooker fame; Minnie, Mrs. A. A. Curry of Pisgah; Emma, Mrs. Gibson, deceased; Samuel, deceased; Martha, died in infancy; Arthur of Indio, California; Elizabeth, Mrs. Hardwick of the vicinity of Merritt; Homer of Los Angeles, California. They also have ten grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

They now occupy the Wood homestead near Pisgah and admit they are a bit lonely at times without their children but such is the fate of man; the birds must fly from the parent nest.

That it is unavoidable that children must leave home, yet the parents will ever be welcomed at the fireside of any of their children.

THAT IT IS UNAVOIDABLE THAT CHILDREN MUST LEAVE HOME, YET THE PARENTS WILL EVER BE WELCOMED AT THE FIRESIDE OF ANY OF THEIR CHILDREN.

LETTER FROM THE HON. T. C. MACMILLAN.

The following letter will prove interesting to our readers not only because of its reference to the Goudy name, but also because of being written by Mr. MacMillan, now clerk of the U. S. District Court, and formerly trustee of Illinois College.

Mr. MacMillan has long been prominent in Illinois politics, having been a state senator from Chicago, and is an accomplished newspaper man, serving for years upon the Inter-Ocean.

The letter was addressed to Mr. Ensley Moore, but has a public interest, justifying publication:

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 12, 1916.

Mr. Dear Mr. Moore:

I have received thru your kindness a copy of the Jacksonville Weekly Journal of Dec. 29 ult. which contains your valuable historical biographical article, entitled: "A Notable Illinois Family," meaning the Goudy family. I am particularly interested in it for several reasons.

My wife is a Goudie. This is the Scotch spelling of the name. In England it is written "Goldie". The word "gold" is written "goud" or "goud" in Scotch. The Goudies from whom Mrs. MacMillan descended were of Girvan, Ayrshire. There were also Goudies in Kilmarnock, to one of whom the poet Robert Burns, addressed some well known verses.

Ayrshire is on the west coast of Scotland. It is only a short distance west, across to the northeast shore of Ireland, which is known as Ulster, for centuries a Presbyterian stronghold. The communication here between the two countries is easy and frequent, and many families have inter-married. From this neighborhood of Belfast, Armagh and Londonderry a number of emigrants came to the American colonies, like Gen. John Stark's, of Revolutionary fame. Hence we speak of their descendants as of Scotch-Irish stock. The last Stuart uprising of 1745, and the French and Indian war drew many emigrants from there to America. Among these were the Witherspoons, Woodrows (then written Withrow), Gilmores (Gilmour), Mercers, Blaines, Livingstons, Malcolms, Montgomeries, Goudies, and others. These latter settled in Pennsylvania, and spread to Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa.

One of the best known universities of the people in Chicago is the W. C. Goudy School, which is in the Argyle Park district, on the north side. My nephew, T. C. M. Jamieson, is the principal of this fine school, and I have at times taken part in their annual closing exercises. That the Chicago Board of Education saw fit to name one of its best schools for

Mr. Goudy is sufficient to suggest the high esteem in which he was held by the public here.

Mr. Goudy was one of our most distinguished members of the Chicago bar. As a "club reporter" it was a good fortune, years ago, to come to know him. This acquaintance was always a source of satisfaction and benefit to me. He was ever the courteous gentleman, kindly to the interviewer, of fine political temper, uniformly careful in expression, clear in opinion, liberal of view, and one whose statements could be relied upon absolutely.

You are doing a valuable service in imprisoning in type the record which you possess, and which otherwise might be forever lost to the future historian.

Sincerely Yours,
Thomas C. MacMillan.

It may be added to this that Mr. MacMillan is a native of Scotland, and knows and understands about that "Bonnie" land.

As previously stated in the "Old Jacksonville" sketches, Mr. Goudy was a graduate of Illinois college. But it was not stated that he was a generous contributor to his Alma Mater, which bestowed upon him the degree of L. L. D. He was elected a trustee but could not serve. At the time the corner stone of the Gymnasium was laid Mr. Goudy was to make the address, but was unable to be present.

THREE GOOD ACTS

AT THE GRAND.

Manager Johnson has three good vaudeville acts booked at the Grand. The acts opened a two days engagement Friday afternoon and all of them were well received by the audience. The Broadway Comedy Four, a quartet number, was somewhat handicapped by the serious illness of the tenor singer. The act worked as a trio and put over some good stuff. Bert Howard billed as the Rubie piano player, lived up to his reputation and made a hit with the audience. Collins, Elliott and Lindsay appeared in an acrobatic act. The act is out of the ordinary and was well received. Manager Johnson is to be congratulated in giving local theatre patrons these acts as they all play on big time circuits.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE DOWNS EUREKA FIVE

FAST GAME ENDS IN A SCORE OF 24 TO 21.

It has been a good many years, perhaps never before, that Morgan county basketball players figured in six games the same evening, as was the case last night. The honors were about equally divided. Illinois college played a close game against Eureka and the second team went down to a defeat at Griggsville, by the fast high school bunch of that town. Route college ran away with their game against Tallula and the Franklin Independents outclassed Bluffs. Pawnee high and Waverly high played a furious game with Pawnee the victor. Jacksonville high's second team was run all over by the White Hall bunch.

Illinois vs. Eureka.
Illinois college and Eureka college mixed in a fast game last night which resulted in a score of 24 to 21 in favor of Illinois. Illinois took the lead early when Frisbie slipped in three baskets and the local continued the scoring till the last of the first half showed a score of 14 to 9 against the visitors.

Eureka started the second half off with a rush, and seemed to be putting up a better game than Illinois. The efforts to shoot long baskets, however, figured in their loss of the contest, although the half showed that Eureka was two points ahead. Pierce played his usual good game at guard and Frisbie made fourteen points for his teammates. Hill was put in at left guard and put up a consistent game. Stewart's shot of a long basket in the second half was a feature of his work and McLaughlin played with equal strength against his opponent.

PREDICT CREST OF FLOOD WILL BE REACHED NEXT FRIDAY

Water and Sewage Accumulation in Cairo is Serious—Expect to Discontinue Train Service to Southeast Missouri.

Cairo, Ill., Jan. 14—The Ohio river registered 48 1-2 feet here today and the weather bureau predicted that the crest—51 feet—would arrive next Friday. Officials of the St. Louis-Iron Mountain and Southern Pacific and of the St. Louis & Southwestern railroads said they expected to discontinue train service to southeast Missouri tonight because the high stage of the Mississippi makes it dangerous to land from the transfer boat at Bird's Point, Mo.

Water and sewage accumulation here is serious. Many basements have been flooded putting out furnace fires. Four large electrically-driven drainage pumps gave some relief but power plant trouble has handicapped this relief. A break in the main sewer caused a fifth pump in the downtown district to be shut down.
